“EVENING WITH JAY STUTZ”

KPETS FIRST FUNDRAISING DINNER

On April 28th, KPETS will host an extraordinary guest, Jay Stutz, at our first fundraising dinner. Because of Jay's unique talent and devotion to animals, you will never meet a more dynamic and passionate animal lover. This is an event not to miss.

You may have seen Jay as the host of Animal Planet's "Good Dog U". He addressed every issue of dog training from how to handle a dog that attacks the vacuum cleaner to re-domesticating a dog that had been lost for seven months and learned to live in the wild. "Good Dog U" continues to air on Animal Planet today.

A wonderful meal in a beautiful setting is all but guaranteed with the Felicita Resort. This beautiful facility is nestled in the mountains about 10 minutes north of Harrisburg. It is easy to get to and I would encourage you to take the time to come early to tour the gardens. The gardens feature different themes, such as the Italian Garden, the Secret Garden, the English Garden and the Butterfly Garden. The resort also has a variety of nature trail gardens, which should be beautiful this time of year.

Jay is committed to developing a strong bond between animals and humans. This commitment is shared by each member of KPETS, as we have all seen the benefits that dogs and other animals have on persons who are challenged by age or physical limitations. This evening is our time to celebrate that bond.

If you have not already signed up to attend this unique event, I urge you to do so. You will not only be supporting a wonderful organization, but you will be giving yourself a gift as well. Join your fellow KPETS members as we honor the work we have done and will continue to do in the future. This will be an experience you will remember for a long time.

To get more detailed information and to register for the dinner, please go to www.kpets.org. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Ros Rhodes at 418-1003 and she will be happy to assist you. Ticket sales end April 20th.

Volunteer Recognition Party - April 15

April's Volunteer Recognition Week is 4/15 - 21!

We know it is short notice - but please join us at Brethren Village, Assembly Hall, Sun. April 15 2 p.m. till ? for some fun, fellowship, munchies, a recap of the previous year, plans for the next and a time of sharing. Please RSVP to Jenny at events@kpets.org or 717-808-0143. We do hope you can make this program!

KPETS - Recap

Columbia Senior Center invited KPETS to tell the community seniors all about KPETS on Tuesday, March 13. It was a short time slot for us so we showed the KPETS DVD and had a time of question and answers. Pod worked the crowd before and after our presentation. They would love if someone could come visit them on a regular basis. It's a very informal setting and a perfect setting to try some of the fun ideas and activities that Mary Merrill is using where she goes—like the doggie biscuit bake, etc. Please contact me at kareng@kpets.org or 717-333-5738 if you'd be interested.

Hempfield Wellness Day

Despite one of the heaviest snows of the season, a few people did venture out to Hempfield High School on March 16th to check out the annual wellness fair. The fair hosted a bunch of different vendors representing the many areas of the wellness spectrum. However, there was only one booth with the cute doggies! The KPETS booth got lots of attention, mostly due to our 'barkers', Podly and Maddy! But as people stopped to pet the pooches and look at the KPETS slide show, they were also very interested in what KPETS is. We met a lot of great people, handed out several brochures and may have even recruited several new teams! We had a great time talking with folks and hanging out with our dogs. Good buddies, Maddy and Podly had a great time too, chewing their bones and soaking up all the attention!

-Jenny Rule

Homestead Village

On Saturday, March 10th, five KPETS teams visited Homestead Village for a special dog show. What happy dogs!!! In addition to a room full of interested retirees from Homestead Village, we were joined by a large group of elementary age Girl Scouts. The troop from Lititz is working on a badge related to service and other working dogs. After a brief introduction to our canine crew, the fun began with tricks, and audience participation games. Musical Hoops, Treat Toss and KPETS own Peanut Butter Schleck were a hit for all ages. In the relay races, the two-legged team beat the four-legged team both times!! Our canine clowns are not used to being upstaged, but those Girl Scouts were not only helpful, they were adorable too!!! What great intergenerational fun!! We'll have to do something like this again soon.

- Monica Daniels

Info Talk

I had the opportunity again this year speak at That Pet Places' annual anniversary sale. At least this year I did not have to depend on myself to talk the whole time; I got to play our new PR video. After some technical glitches were worked out (thank goodness they employ their own IT people!), the video played without a hitch. I had several potential therapy dogs in the audience which was much larger than last year. Folks asked lots of good questions and Reni got lots of free pets. Hopefully each year the audience will continue to grow.

—Laura Whitman

Volunteer Roundtable

The Volunteer Round Table scheduled for St. Patrick's Day, March 17th had to be canceled due to icy conditions. I don't believe we'll have that problem at our next meeting however. It will fall on Saturday, May 19th. Please write that day in your calendars & try to plan on attending. The food is good, the prices fair & the fellowship is world class. We're all dog lovers and caring human beings, so why shouldn't it be so??? - Carl Speros

Be sure to contact Carl at misskatie'sdad@webtv.net or 717-397-7882 to let him know if you plan to attend. It is at Moveable Feast, Mountville at 9 am, Saturday, May 19. See you there!

Pet Food Recall by Laura Whitman

As pretty much everyone has heard, we need to be concerned about the ingredients in our pets' food and where pet food companies get their products. The first two to three ingredients should be animal protein, like chicken, turkey or lamb meal, etc. A rule of thumb to follow when reading ingredient labels is, "would I want that on my plate?"

The suspect ingredient at this time is wheat gluten, which is the whole grain wheat broken down into its least most nutritious state - powder. The media is saying that this is a protein source, which is true. Carbohydrates such as bread, rice and grains do have 3 grams of protein per serving. But this is not animal protein, which has 9 grams of protein per serving. Protein is what is important in your pet's diet.

Wheat gluten is an inexpensive filler that pretty much goes in one end and comes out the other. It is not necessary in your pet's food. Ingredients that should be looked for include: animal protein, whole grains, fruits, vegetables, and dairy. Avoid foods with corn gluten, flours, white rice's, by-products and animal digest.

Animal by-products are usually made up of organ meats and other leftovers. Unless asking the company directly, we do not know what percentage of by-products is organ meat and what are the leftovers, like beaks and feet. Animal digest is the rest of the animal that is not fit to be added to human food.

The pet foods that do not include these fillers will possibly cost a little more. The difference is you will be feeding less food per serving. Your pet will be metabolizing more of the food - which results in less stool volume, less stool frequency and faster deterioration in your yard.

The other piece of information that is helpful, is to find out where your pet food manufacturer gets its ingredients. Ingredients imported from countries outside the U.S. typically have less stringent rules to follow regarding sanitation and pesticide use. A good website to check out is www.dogfoodproject.com

Raisins & Grapes Harmful to Dogs

Originally thought to be an urban legend, it is now known that raisins and grapes are indeed toxic to dogs. The type of grape and the type of dog doesn't seem to matter, and the toxic amount may be a small serving to several ounces.

Toxicity

The type of grape or raisin doesn't seem to matter, and the amount consumed may be a single serving of raisins or a pound or more of grapes. (Raisins are much more concentrated.) Researchers are exploring the possibilities: a mycotoxin (fungal toxin), pesticide, herbicide or heavy metals, but thus far the actual toxin is unknown at this time.

Clinical Signs

Vomiting and jittery (hyperactive) behavior are seen immediately to within the first 24 hours after ingestion. Diarrhea may also be seen, and the vomitus and feces may contain partially digested grapes or raisins. After 24 hours, the dog may become anorexic, lethargic and depressed. Additionally the abdomen may be painful, the dog may stop drinking and urinating.

Treatment

If the raisin or grape ingestion was 2 hours or less, the veterinarian will want to induce vomiting to rid the body of the toxin and then administer activated charcoal to absorb any remaining toxin. Aggressive intravenous (IV) fluid therapy is required to keep the kidneys in good health. Additional kidney medications may be indicated, depending on the patient.

If you suspect that your pet has consumed any amount of grapes or raisins, please contact your veterinarian immediately.
